Generated Report

Date: August 25, 2025

introduction: ```json { "title": "Generated Report", "audience": "General", "introduction": { "text": "This report provides an overview of fish, including their characteristics, classification, and importance to humans. Fish are a diverse group of aquatic vertebrates with a wide range of species. They h main_points: ['Here are 3 concise bullet points summarizing the text:', 'Fish are aquatic vertebrates with gills, fins, and a hard skull, and can be grouped into jawless and jawed fish, with the latter including cartilaginous and bony fish.', 'There are over 33,000 extant species of fish, with most belonging to the class Actinopterygii, and fish have been an important natural resource for humans since prehistoric times, serving as food, recreation, and cultural symbols.'] action_plan: [] concerns: [] conclusion: See full text above.